

westwordonline

Sports

Spikers fit to be dyed

A.J. Bayatpour
Staff Writer

Niles West girls' varsity volleyball team has spiked off to a great start with a 7-10 overall record and 2-2 in the CSL South.

On September 25 the Wolves played the Waukegan Bulldogs in two games which "went down to the wire," said coach Leah Carter, losing 25- 9 in the first game and 26-24 in the second game. Kim Edwardson scored nine points, three aces, 13 assists and three kills. Other standouts included Christina Sidropoulos with five points, Sam Nelson had six kills and Julia Varsamis with eight kills.

On September 23 the Wolves lost a heartbreaker to the Evanston Wildkits. The Wildkits won the first game 28 -26. However, the Wolves took the "Wild" out of "Wilkits" in the second game, winning 25-18. Before dropping the third game by a 25-22 count. Carter praised strong performances by Edwardson, Eunice An and Ioanna Halkias.

The Wolves won eight games last year and fell short of their ten game goal. So, they are on a mission this year.

If this were not incentive enough, if the Wolves can win just three more games coach Carter has told the girls that she will dye her hair red.

